BE ALTARED / ALTAR MUCH? - Design & IP Development Record

Updated and finalized through 2026-09-26. Internal development/authorship record; not itself a U.S. Copyright Office filing.

Status

Master development/IP record updated and finalized through 2026-09-26.

This archive documents the ALTARED theme of Christian T-shirt graphics. It is an internal authorship and asset record; it is not itself a Copyright Office filing.

Work Family

- Theme / design family: ALTARED
- Design ID: 001
- Work type: 2-D graphic artwork / apparel artwork
- Intended use: Christian T-shirt graphics
- Brand: TBD; the sayings are design titles, not the brand
- Primary treatment: distressed monochrome clip-art / engraving / screen-print aesthetic
- Dark-shirt treatment: white/light monochrome
- Background: true transparent alpha intended
- Production principle: negative-space / transparent shaded areas allow the shirt fabric color to show through rather than printing a solid patch

Design 001A — BE ALTARED

Central concept

An unidentified Old Testament-era figure kneeling humbly in prayer before a stone altar, listening rather than performing or celebrating.

Final creative direction

- Large arched BE ALTARED typography
- Cross and divider lines
- Anonymous Old Testament-era worshipper viewed from behind
- Kneeling posture
- Humble/prayerful body language
- Head bowed
- Stone altar
- Stylized altar fire
- Biblical-era clothing
- Distressed clip-art / woodcut / engraved linework
- Broken ink and negative-space treatment for apparel printing
- No identified biblical character
- No modern church setting in the final primary concept

Design 001B — ALTAR MUCH?

Relationship to the theme

ALTAR MUCH? is a related style within the ALTARED theme. It reuses the established visual language and altar imagery while changing the headline/message to a conversational, reflective question.

Final creative direction

- Exact headline: ALTAR MUCH?
- Same distressed serif / vintage apparel typography family
- Same stone-altar, prayer, altar-call, and Old Testament worship imagery may be used as companion variants
- Same cross/divider visual language
- White/light monochrome for dark shirts
- Transparent alpha background
- Transparent/negative-space distressing inside shaded regions so the shirt color visibly shows through
- Back-of-shirt placement for the primary graphic

Preserved ALTAR MUCH? assets

See `02_ALTAR_MUCH_Variant/` for the developed variants, including stone altar, church altar-call, Old Testament raised-hands altar scene, kneeling/listening scene, and final style references.

Front Pocket Cross — Companion Graphic

A matching standalone cross was developed for the front pocket / left-chest position to accompany the larger back graphic.

Final cross creative direction

- Rustic wooden Christian cross
- No ornate crusader/gothic geometry
- Rough, weathered wood grain
- No large circular wood knots in the beams
- Crown of thorns hanging/resting around the upper cross intersection
- Tattered draped cloth
- Monochrome engraved / woodcut / distressed clip-art style synchronized to the ALTARED shirt graphics
- Transparent alpha background
- Shaded/distressed areas are also transparent/negative space where appropriate so shirt fabric shows through
- Designed as a compact standalone front-pocket/left-chest mark

Development Record

The archive preserves the generated iterations used to develop the design family, including:

1. Stone altar / prayer concept
2. Distressed monochrome treatment
3. Dark-shirt white-ink treatment

4. Modern church altar-call concept
5. Biblical patriarch/prophet concept
6. Kneeling, humble, listening posture
7. Rear-view anonymous figure
8. Refined clip-art / engraved treatment
9. ALTAR MUCH? lettering variants using the established artwork family
10. Matching front-pocket cross explorations
11. Crown-of-thorns and draped-cloth cross refinement
12. Removal of oversized wood knots
13. Final transparent distressed cross synchronized to the back graphic style

AI-Assisted Development

Generative AI was used during concept and artwork development. The final copyright claim, if registered, should accurately distinguish AI-generated material from human-authored expression and should identify the human creative contributions and modifications actually made.

Do not represent this record as establishing that all pixels in an AI-assisted image are human-authored.

Human Creative Direction Documented

The human-directed contributions reflected in this development include:

- Overall ALTARED theme and message family
- Selection of BE ALTARED and ALTAR MUCH? as design sayings
- Selection of altar/prayer subjects
- Decision to use an unidentified Old Testament-era figure
- Rear-view, kneeling, listening, and raised-hands compositions
- Altar, fire, clothing, and environmental direction
- Typography and phrase placement
- Cross placement and divider treatment
- Distressed clip-art / screen-print aesthetic
- Transparent/negative-space requirement
- Dark-shirt color treatment
- Back graphic / front pocket companion layout concept
- Rustic cross direction
- Crown of thorns and tattered cloth direction
- Removal of large wood knots
- Requirement that shaded/distressed regions remain transparent so the shirt color shows through
- Iterative selection and refinement of the visual direction

The precise copyrightable scope should be determined from the final human-authored artwork and modifications actually incorporated.

Registration Preparation

Before filing with the U.S. Copyright Office:

- Establish the final master artwork(s).
- Preserve editable/source artwork and final exports.
- Record completion date.
- Record first publication date when applicable.
- Record first sale/publication information when applicable.
- Prepare an accurate description of human-authored material and any material excluded because it was AI-generated.
- Use the Copyright Office's applicable visual-arts registration procedure.

Asset Inventory

- `01_Artwork_Development/` — original BE ALTARED development images
- `02_ALTAR_MUCH_Variant/` — ALTAR MUCH? companion back-design variants
- `03_Front_Pocket_Cross/` — cross development and the final standalone cross
- `BE_ALTARED_Development_Contact_Sheet.png` — original visual index
- `SHA256_Manifest.json` — integrity hashes for the archived assets

Versioning Rule

Future independent concepts should receive sequential Design IDs:

- Design 002
- Design 003
- Design 004

Related wording/art variants within the same design family may use lettered variants (for example, 001A, 001B) when they intentionally share the same core visual system.
